

Shooting Reported in Rudy Store, P. O. Holdup

Fayetteville, April 5 — (AP)—The postoffice and two stores at Rudy, Ark., were burglarized early today and a report was received here that there had been some shooting between officers and men believed responsible for the break-ins.

Cy Carney of Fayetteville, owner of a general merchandise store at Rudy, said his store and the Neal Grocery store, in which the post office is housed, had been entered.

Carney said his son, Cy, Jr., had reported by telephone from Rudy that officers had cornered some suspects and that there had been some shooting.

At Little Rock, state police headquarters said it had received a report that its state police and other authorities had flushed two men from a stolen automobile in a mountainous area near Chester, Ark.

Rudy is about 10 miles north-east of Van Buren, Ark. and about 40 miles south of Fayetteville. Chester is between Rudy and Fayetteville.

Girl, 17, Kills 52-Year-Old Lover

Waukegan, Ill., April 5 — (UP)—A blonde, 17-year-old girl wept hysterically today as she told of shooting to death her 52-year-old lover because he refused to divorce his wife and marry her.

Joyce Schumaker, dressed in slacks, saddle shoes and corduroy jacket, told authorities that she shot and killed Carl Reeder, clerk at Waukegan Township high school. She said she had been intimate with him for months.

The shooting occurred late yesterday. Reeder's automobile, owned by Miss Schumaker and her girl friend, Joyce Kirkpatrick, 17, had parked by Lake Michigan.

Miss Schumaker drove the dying man to Victory Memorial hospital here, then hastened to the dress shop where Reeder's wife works and told her of the shooting.

Assistant State's Attorney Wilber Brazell said he would get a murder warrant against the girl.

Police said Miss Schumaker went to the Reeder home last Thursday and talked both to Reeder and his wife. She demanded that Reeder get a divorce, authorities said. Mrs. Reeder refused to consent.

Miss Kirkpatrick told police the Schumaker girl whispered "I love you" to her and then fired the .22 calibre pistol at Reeder's abdomen and at the same time said "I'm not a liar like you are."

Miss Kirkpatrick was released after questioning. Police said she apparently did not know the reason for the Lakeside rendezvous when she accompanied the others.

The murder weapon belonged to Bob Schumaker, Joyce's 19-year-old brother, police said.

Miss Schumaker was a former student at the high school but quit last year to take a job.

Her parents said they had heard rumors that she was going with a married man, but had no definite knowledge of any affair.

The Reeds had no children.

Actress Showing Improvement Says Husband

However, Dr. John McCausland said last night that the 32-year-old actress may have to remain in bed until the birth of her first child expected in August.

She has been confined to her bed for the last two months.

Court Refuses to Rehear School Case

Little Rock, April 4 — (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today refused to rehear a case in which it held that special school elections are prohibited by Amendment 40 to the state constitution.

The case was styled H. C. Adams vs. Dewitt Special School district.

The decision halted plans of about 55 Arkansas school districts to seek loans amounting to approximately $500,000. About 12 of the districts face emergency situations having lost their buildings through fire or storm, according to State Education Commission A. B. Bonds.

The state education board probably will be called into session again soon to consider means of meeting the situation.

Most of the special school district elections, which the supreme court says are prohibited, are for the purpose of authorizing bond issues and levying taxes to retire them. Under the supreme court decision in the Dewitt case, such matters can be passed on only at the regular school elections, which under an act of the 1949 legislature are now held in September.

Heard and dismissed was a Garland chancery court decree holding Charles Singer liable to his deceased wife's estate for $18,910.

The suit was brought by the Arkansas National bank of the Springs as executor of the estate of Mrs. Della B. Singer, seeking an accounting of property Singer handled for his wife from 1924 until her death Oct. 1, 1944.

The Singer were married in St. Louis in 1917 and moved to Hot Springs in 1912. Singer sold his business in 1923 after his wife received an inheritance from her brother's estate.

The supreme court said "it is true that Singer handled more than $750,000 of his wife's money over the period from 1923 to 1944, but it is undisputed that she permitted him to do so without restraint."

In view of the facts, the high court said, "we have concluded that an accounting was not warranted."

The court affirmed a Jefferson chancery court decree denying James Woolfolk, Little Rock, one-sixth interest in 280 acre tract of land in Jefferson county, owned by the McDonald company, Pine Bluff.

The company foreclosed a $11,072 mortgage on the land in 1938. Woolfolk contended that as one of the six heirs of his father, S. L. Woolfolk, he was not notified of the foreclosure.

The lower court ruled that one of his brothers, administrator of the father's estate, was notified, and that it was reasonable to believe other heirs knew of the action. The supreme court upheld that ruling.

The West Memphis flying service failed to recover $1,750 insurance from the American Aviation and Insurance company for destruction of a plane being flown in violation of civil aeronautics administration regulations.

The opinion affirmed a decision of the Crittenden circuit court that the insurance policy covering the plane became invalid when the regulations were violated. The plane crashed while being piloted by Thomas J. Jordan, Jr., who held a student pilot permit but was carrying a passenger, William Goddard, in violation of CAA regulations.

Describes Terror of Blaze

(Editor's note: The following eyewitness account of the tragic hospital fire was given to the Associated Press by W. R. Crannell, 30, an employee of the Civil Aeronautics administration).

By W. R. CRANNELL

Effingham, Ill., April 5 — (AP)—It was about midnight, and my wife, Melba, and I were asleep in our bedroom directly across the street from the hospital. The fire sirens sounding the general alarm woke my wife up.

The first I recall coming out of my sleep was my wife shouting: "Oh my God, look."

When I looked out the window flames were shooting from the upper portion of the building and from the front entrance. The flames mostly were on the west side. But smoke was pouring from everywhere.

I grabbed my clothes and dashed across the street in about 30 seconds. When I got there a city fire truck and a few firemen had arrived.

Two fellows were placing ladders up to windows on the east end. I ran around to the side by the sisters home. Two women were seated in windows about 12 feet off the ground. I asked them to sit with their legs hanging down and another fellow and myself were able to grab their legs and ease them to the ground.

Around in back of the hospital three or four women were seated in windows and others were jumping out.

By that time, flames were everywhere and persons were beginning to jump from third floor windows. I hollered to some of them "don't jump." Then I ran to the sisters' home to try to find some blankets to improvise life-nets. But, when I got back it was too late to help and the blankets were left on the ground.

25 Report for Baseball Practice

Twenty-five enthusiastic candidates reported for the initial workout at the Falk Park last night, as the Merchants-Legion Skipper, Clyde Zinn, began looking over prospects for the coming baseball season. Included in the list of players trying out are 5 pitchers, 2 catchers, 12 infielders, and 6 outfielders. There are also a large number of players who are in college and will not be able to report until after school is out that should boost the number of prospects to 35 or 40. With this fine number of boys wanting to play baseball and with such men as Clyde Zinn, Wallace Cook, and Ray McDowell furnishing the brains for the team, a very successful season is likely.

The poles to be used in lighting the field are here and have already been moved to the Park. Work is underway for getting the field ready and interest is expected to reach a high peak in the near future.

Business manager, Fred Robertson announced that beginning this afternoon the team would work out on the Hope High School diamond in order that more progress might be made toward conditioning the ball park. The workouts will begin at 5:30 or as soon as the game is over between Prescott and the Hope High School. All players are asked to be present.

Bank Official Caught in Washington

Washington, April 5 — (AP)—Richard C. Crowe was seized in Daytona Beach, Fla., last night, charged with fleeing with $894,000 from New York's National City bank.

Crowe, assistant manager of the bank's branch at 135 Broadway, was taken into custody by FBI agents. He had been missing since March 27.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover who announced the arrest said Crowe was tracked down after a wide search in Florida.

Crowe was taken into custody in a bar after the agents and Daytona Beach police had trailed him from the street.

Hoover said Crowe admitted taking a large sum of money from the bank but declined to specify any particular amount.

Agents recovered $54,788.63 from a suitcase in Crowe's possession. Previously, Hoover said, $36,505 of the funds had been recovered and an additional $9,850 had been located.

All told, Hoover added, a total of $131,153.63 of the stolen funds have been accounted for.

The bank previously reported that Crowe had taken at least $883,600, including $198,000 in cash and $690,000 in bonds.

About $15,000 in cash was found in a vacant beach bungalow owned by Crowe's parents at Staten Island. In addition, Crowe had mailed and cashed $61,000 to banks and friends to whom he owed money. The money was sent from Florida a few days after he disappeared.

Crowe told the FBI, Hoover related, that he threw the stolen funds and securities in the Atlantic ocean and "took these only to make the bank officials angry."

Hoover's account said: "After fleeing from New York City on March 27, 1949, Crowe purchased a new car in Jacksonville, Fla., on March 28, 1949, which he abandoned at St. Augustine, Fla., on April 1.

Mr. Truman, in his talk at the late afternoon signing ceremony, called the pact a simple document, but added:

"If it had existed in 1914 and in 1939, supported by the nations which are represented here today, I believe it would have prevented the acts of aggression which led to two world wars."

Like the other speakers, the president avoided naming Russia specifically but at two points he referred obviously to the Soviet union.

He said that the method of free association, "of organizing diverse peoples and cultures, is in direct contrast to the method of the police state, which attempts to achieve unity by imposing the same beliefs and the same rule of force on everyone."

Mr. Truman also blamed Russia for creating the necessity for such a regional alliance. He said the United States and other countries had hoped to establish an international United Nations force for preserving world peace but those efforts "have been blocked by one of the major powers."

Two women in the delivery room when the fire broke out both gave birth after escaping. Mrs. Arnold Aderman, 24, jumped from a second floor window. She was taken to a nearby home where she gave birth. Her physician said she was "coming along fine." The other women, Mrs. Wenston Sidner of St. Elmo, was taken to a clinic where her child was born. Mother and child were described as in "good condition."

As Told To The United Press

Effingham, Ill., April 5 — (UP)—My wife was in labor in the delivery room at St. Anthony's hospital when it caught fire.

She kicked the screen out of the window and climbed down a ladder against a roof off the second floor. I watched her come down.

Then we took her home. At 1:30 a. m. today, she had a boy. He's our third child. We have Tom, 7, and Janet, 5. My wife's a blue-eyed blonde. She's 25.

She told me we ought to name the new baby 'Lucky'.

She was the bravest thing I ever saw.

I was home asleep about midnight when I heard the hospital was on fire.

I ran the three blocks to the hospital. I knew she was in there.

When I arrived, someone was pushing at the screen on the delivery room window, just above a roof. It was June.

Flames and smoke were shooting all around. The firemen put the ladder up there. June knocked the screen out and crawled onto the roof. Then she started down the ladder. I didn't dare try to go up after her.

I was afraid for her. I didn't know what was going to happen.

But she got down. I was there waiting for her. I took her to someone's house across the street.

Then we took her home. The boy was born about an hour after we got there.

ed. Crowe readily admitted his identity and admitted a willingness to return to New York to face charges."

Man Admits Shooting Another

Memphis, April 4 — (AP) — A 52-year-old Altonan pleaded innocent today to a charge that he shot and critically injured his daughter's ex-lover, a war hero, in a downtown hotel here Saturday.

Alber Ivadean Chesser, 52, on Tuesday pleaded innocent in city court on an assault to murder charge. He was fined $51 for carrying a pistol and was held to the state on the other charge.

Chesser was accused of shooting a 30-year-old, Harry Hynds, Jr., 30, of Miami, Tenn., Hynds was in a sixth floor hotel corridor near Chesser's hotel room. He is in critical condition with a bullet wound in his lung and spine.

Chesser's daughter, Mrs. Mable Elizabeth Ortega, was held to the state on a charge of accessory before the fact of assault to murder. She pleaded innocent.

An accessory charge against Paul Keith Mitchell, 27, of St. Joseph, Mo., was amended, and he was held as a material witness.

Police inspector Pete Wiebenga gave this account of the shooting: Hynds, who won the Distinguished Service Cross with the 11th airborne division in the Pacific, came here to discuss with Mrs. Ortega the possibility of adopting Mrs. Ortega's six-year-old daughter.

He and Mrs. Ortega met with Chesser in the father's hotel room, and the shooting resulted. Chesser has made no statement.

The woman told reporters she and Hynds had a romance in 1941 while she was married to, but separated from, another man. And Mrs. Hynds, here at her husband's bedside, told reporters her husband had told her before their marriage of his romance with Mrs. Ortega.

Mrs. Ortega's husband, Juan, is stationed at the Memphis Naval air station. Hynds, whose family lives at White Deer, Texas, is with the army recruiting service at Milan.

Mitchell has been identified as a business companion of Chesser. Hynds and his wife, a former WAC from Birmingham, were married in Tokyo. They returned to this country six months ago. His wife has been at his bedside since Saturday.

Mrs. Ortega's child resides in Knoxville, Tenn., with Mark Webster, the father of the woman's former husband.

Girl Ends Life When Date Fails to Show Up

Port Washington, N. Y., April 4 — (UP) — It was spring and Sharon Cate, a tall, auburn-haired 17-year-old with green eyes, was in love with a college freshman, Roderick Turner, also 17.

Rod was home on spring vacation from Cornell university and they had a date nearly every night last week.

But Saturday night Rod failed to call. Sharon dressed up in her best outfit, a powder-blue corduroy jumper and a frilly white blouse, and waited.

"He'll get here," Sharon told her family at 8 o'clock. Then she persuaded them to go to the movies. She promised that when Rod came, they would stay at the house and baby-sit for her younger brother, Bobby, seven.

Finally, late in evening, Sharon realized Rod wasn't going to come. She went upstairs and opened wide both windows in her sleeping brother's room.

Then she returned to the kitchen, blew out the pilot lights on the gas stove to make sure there would be no explosion, and turned on all four jets.

When her family returned home at 12:15 a. m. they found her slumped over the kitchen table, still wearing her date-going clothes. She had been dead for more than an hour.

Young Turner was stunned. "I thought I had been seeing Sharon just about as much as a fellow could be expected to see his girl," he said. "I dated her on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday and called her nearly every other night. I didn't have any other girl although I did have another date on Friday night."

"I guess Sharon would have liked me to see her every night, but I just didn't have enough money to take her out both Saturday and Sunday night, and I'd been saving Sunday because that was the last night before I was to go back to school."

Treatment Relieves Cancer Patients

Chicago, April 4 — (UP) — Treatments with sex hormones relieved the suffering of 65 per cent of a group of test patients who had advanced cancer of the breast, a speaker at an American Medical association conference said today.

Dr. Walton Van Winkle, Jr., reported that the use of testosterone, the male sex hormone, completely relieved many patients of intense pain. There were 293 patients in the test group.

Van Winkle said, however, that the male hormone had little actual curative ability. So far, its main use has been in relieving pain, he said.

Members were urged to attend the meeting at the church, Monday evening April 11 when reports will be given. The meeting was closed with prayer.

Delicious cherry filled coconut cakes with coffee was served to 18 members and one guest, Mrs. Henry W. Taylor.

Coming and Going

Mrs. and Mr. Percy Sharpe, Jr. and Mrs. Percy H. Mooringsport, La. have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Steed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ralph Rounton are at home in Cheryl Del Apartment, E. Second St. after a wedding trip to Pensacola, Mobile, Alabama, New Orleans, and Shreveport.

DOROTHY DIX Thrill Gone

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married for five years and during that time I have been blissfully happy. But something has happened to my marriage. I don't know just what it is, but that indefinable "something" is missing. The thrill seems to have gone from my life. My husband feels the same way about it. He has become restless and baffled.

What is it all about? What is the remedy?

WORRIED COUPLE
Answer: What happened to your marriage? Nothing at all, except that you have quit—thrilling at each others touch, and no longer have palpitation of the heart at the sound of each other's footsteps. But what if it? What does it matter? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. By its very nature a thrill is bound to be evanescent. Repetition inevitably takes the edge off it.

You can't be startled by anything happening the second time. You are prepared for it and you are no longer surprised, but that doesn't keep you from enjoying it. Your pulse may not skip a beat at the approach of one you love and see every day of your life, but it doesn't keep it from being the dearest thing in the world to you.

The trouble with so many young people is that when they cease thrilling after marriage they decide that they have fallen out of love and they go seeking these thrills in forbidden places, and that is fatal. For no kisses thrill for long, and no human being can long exist in the rarefied atmosphere of passion. We have to come down to earth.

Horse Sense Needed
The remedy for your case is a good, hard horse sense that will enable you to meet with philosophy a situation that occurs in every marriage. And a little change, getting away from each other for a little while, will keep you from wrecking your lives.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother and father accuse me of being ashamed of them because I object to their sitting in the living room whenever I have company. It isn't that at all, because I love my parents and am proud of them, but don't you think that a girl should have a little privacy when she entertains her boy friends?

SALLY
Answer: I certainly do, and I don't think any girl's family is giving her a square deal unless they provide her with some place where she can receive her beaux out of earshot of her curious relatives, and safe from the maraudings of little brother and sister.

It isn't that the young people if left alone would do or say anything wrong. It is just that the presence of their elders cramps their style. They want to be silly and giggle and laugh, and they can't do that with the family gallery all about.

The parents who are not willing to give up the living room to Sally may well reflect that they are doing all they can to make her an old maid, for no youth is going to pay a return call on a girl when he has to spend the evening in the bottom of her family.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am engaged to a wonderful girl. We would be so happy except for my mother, who never leaves us alone for a minute that she can't chide. She has three other sons, but she concentrates on me and clings to me like a leech.

Now I love my mother dearly, but I would like to be able to go out with my fiancée alone, without Mother always tagging along. My girl friend says that she is fed up with Mom's company, but what can I do to shake Mother? I don't want to hurt her feelings.

A SON
Answer: The only thing you can do is to have a very frank talk with your mother and tell her that she is ruining your life. Tell her that you want to be alone with your sweetheart. Ask her if she doesn't remember her own courtship days when there was a crowd.

There is no more insoluble problem in the world than the mother who is a spiritual parasite on her children.

World's Largest Plane Makes Initial Flight

London, April 4 — (UP) — The world's largest commercial land-plane, Pan American's "Flying Cloud," landed here today on a maiden Trans-Atlantic flight marked by slight engine trouble between Newfoundland and Ireland.

During the seven-hour Trans-Atlantic flight, an oil leak forced Chief Pilot Capt. Robert D. Forgy, of Valley Stream, L. I., N. Y., to cut one engine and feather the propeller as a safety measure. Despite the cut, the plane landed 10 minutes ahead of schedule at Shannon.

Rooster Without Head Already Lived Two Days

Los Angeles, April 4 — (AP) — A rooster which lost its head two days ago is still alive today. A veterinarian says it should live as long as its windpipe and throat remain open.

Dr. Alan Ross examined the phenomenon yesterday and found a small part of the rooster's brain, which controls respiration and circulation, was still left in the severed neck.

Its movements, he explained, are controlled by its spinal cord.

The bird was purchased, with head missing, on Saturday by Mrs. Martha Green. She had a Sunday chicken dinner on her mind.

She placed it in the sink to pluck the feathers when the bird stood and began walking around. It made a strange noise. It wasn't a crow, but the normal sound a chicken would make with its head off.

Mrs. Green is feeding her new found pet with milk and egg yolk by inserting an eyedropper in its throat.

Food Appears to Be Selling Cheap in Hong Kong
Hong Kong, April 4 — (AP) —

Durand Wilder, American aid chief in north China, said today famed Peking duck dinners were selling for five cents each in Tientsin when he left there a few days ago.

That included all the trimmings.

The Rev. J. L. Bates of Watkins, Minn., a Catholic priest who recently came here from Peking, said similar low prices prevailed there. He said eggs there were selling for $1 for 129 eggs. He said he did not know the reason for lots of 129 eggs being sold but that was the price.

Peking and Tientsin are under Communist control.

The priest said the Communists had not bothered Catholic religious services.

Books were so scarce four centuries ago that they sometimes were chained to public book stalls.

84-Year-Old Wondering How to Spend Money

Reed City, Mich., April 4 — (AP) — An 84-year-old recipient of old-age assistance pondered today on how to use the $6,200 fortune he should inherit soon from the estate of his reclusive brother.

The money was found yesterday in the junk-littered home of Charles Dahlberg, who died Saturday at the age of 87.

Dahlberg, a bachelor, left no will, and his brother, Alex, is his only known heir.

There are two old wells on the farm of the late Dahlberg. These are believed to have been the source of the money discovered in his two-room, frame house by Sheriff Ray Wooster and Coroner W. A. Livingston.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

From the conventional viewpoints the financial career of the which Anna Roosevelt Boettger and her husband, John, started in Phoenix, Ariz., was eric business, but according to the Roosevelt standards followed by old Moosejaw, Elliott and Uncle Hall Ronsewells in the John Hartford gold-brick, this was orthodox procedure.
Soon after poor old fumble John Boettger, a commenor who got tangled up in the royal family, returned from the war in 1945, he and Princess Anna picked up a little weekly shopping paper in Phoenix and began inching their way toward the buzz-saw. They changed it into a bi-weekly and in May, 1947, went into the daily evening paper in Phoenix.
Boettger, whatever his personal and ethical quirks, had been a major league journalist for years.
With the Midas touch of the Roosevelts, the touch that promoted fortunes from a whole string of suckers for Elliott and a free-til golden shower for Moosejaw to pay off his personal debts on his Warm Springs real estate venture in 1928, Anna, and probably John, began plotting. How to explain it never will know, but they were and may still be many rich men who would almost tear their pants off reaching for their money for a Roosevelt.

The old man, a millionaire by inheritance from the opium racket, non-union, company town, opium mines and occult financial deals, was always low-downing the rich, and yet rich people went simply bag-a, lost their judgment and threw money at the Roosevelts.
Old Henry Farish, the godfather, and in a practical sense stepfather, of Eleanor, the Great, was taken for $300,000 in his old age when he couldn't afford to stand that tap, when one of the family circle gave him a million dollars and a job of that irresistible charm.

It's a gift. It's wonderful. It's magic!

Marshall Field and Charles A.
Ward, described in these essays yesterday, went in for $50,000 each at the first touch. Bernard M. Baruch, who made the mile-age out of his dough and makes a little look like a lot, tossed in $10,000 as a personal loan to Anna. None of these touches shows on the reports of the accountants who combed the prospective in the summer of 1948, a year later when Anna and John were selling out.

They were personal loans. Later, all three went for the same amounts again in a transaction which left them holding "B" stock and "cumulative income" notes bearing theoretical interest at 4 1-2 per cent, for $50,000 each in the cases of Field and Ward and $10, 000 in the case of Baruch.

The audit report of Frederick H.
Woodward and K. E. Mackey, certified accountants on the state of affairs of the Arizona Times on June 30, 1948, says: "On December 10, 1947, the company negotiated a loan through the Valley National Bank in the amount of $200,000, secured by a first mortgage and chat-tel mortgage and "trust interesture." Persons who took part in the dealings say, however, that Field and Ward indorsed the loan for $50,000 each, and that Baruch indorsed it for another $10,000, and that Jimmy Roosevelt guaranteed $25,000 of it, one Columbus Girigi also went for $25,000, but I am advised that he, and he alone, insisted that Anna Roosevelt Boettger's share of her father's estate should be security for his risk. A tory, no doubt.

"As of June 3, 1948," the report continued, "the company was obligated for $30,000 of a 1-2 per cent cumulative income notes due April 15, 1972. Payment of the principal of these notes depends entirely on the earnings of the company and the notes are subsidiary to all other indebtedness. It is our understanding that negotiations are pending for the acceptance of settlement and final payment to note holders of one per cent of the principal amount of these notes."

You will read more in a minute about the "compromise" settlement which gave per cent just half of Elliott's rate of "compromise" on his deadbeat obligations arranged by Jesse Jones at the request of the late commander-in-chief. But meanwhile let us get into the story this ensuing verbiage from the accountants' report:
"Other notes payable consist of two unsecured 4 1-2 per cent notes of $30,000 each payable to Walter Kirschner, or $60,000 due this goggle-eyed idealist who so admired the late Roosevelt. He did all this for Moosejaw's daughter in addition to the $99,000 that he paid for his 49 per cent of the paper when it was converted into a daily only a year before. For this $150,000 plus $1,250 of accrued interest, Kirschner got out of it $25,000, most of the purchase price paid by the new and present owners. He did very well, at that, all things considered.

On the subject of the one-cent-not-the-dollar rate of "compromise," the following is excerpted from a letter by Anna to the Valley National bank of Phoenix, on July 23, 1948:

"I hand you herewith the check of Mr. Columbus Girigi, in the sum of $1,200 representing one per cent of the principal amount of the cumulative notes of the Arizona Times, Inc. which I understand have been delivered to you by the following persons owning extra-tive notes in the amount set opposite their respective names:
"Charles Allen Ward, $50,000;
Marshall Field, $50,000; Louis G.
Cowan, $10,000; Pauline Cowan, $10,000; together with the Class B stock of the Arizona Times owned by them. This check is delivered to you in payment for the notes and stock described above pursuant to instructions in your hands from the owners to deliver the same to me or my order upon payment of one per cent of the principal amount. I instruct you to deliver said notes and stock to Columbus Girigi and I hereby sell, assign and transfer to him my interest in them."

Mr. Girigi was buying up the paper for the new owners.
Further instruct you that in consideration of moneys which have already been paid to me by

New K-F "Traveler" Is Two Cars In One

SOMETHING NEW in the automobile industry is the "Traveler," a lower-priced 49 multi-purpose sedan being introduced by Kaiser-Frazer dealers. To all appearances it is a conventional four-door model. But the rear seat cushions fold away and the entire back opens to provide access to more than 130 cubic feet of cargo space. When not in use as a carry-all, the "Traveler" is a deluxe, six-passenger family sedan. The cutaway-view shows how the seat cushions and hinged rear panels function.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

Atlanta, Ga., April 5 —(AP)—Buddy Scott of Jacksonville, Fla., outpointed Ragon Kinney of Clarksville, Ark., in a 10-round heavy-weight fight here last night.

The referee's decision was unpopular with the strongly pro-Kinney spectators.

Kinney challenged Scott to a return bout. The challenge was accepted.

The bout was one in a series of eliminations designed to select a southern heavyweight champion.
Now both Kinney and Scott have lost one fight in the double-elimination affair.

Referee Joe Red gave Scott four rounds, Kinney one and called the others even.

Budy Scott Wins Decision Over Ragon Kinney

Little Rock, April 5 —(AP)—Buddy Scott of Jacksonville, Fla., outpointed Ragon Kinney of Clarksville, Ark., in a 10-round heavy-weight fight here last night.

The referee's decision was unpopular with the strongly pro-Kinney spectators.

Kinney challenged Scott to a return bout. The challenge was accepted.

The bout was one in a series of eliminations designed to select a southern heavyweight champion.
Now both Kinney and Scott have lost one fight in the double-elimination affair.

Referee Joe Red gave Scott four rounds, Kinney one and called the others even.

Traveler Hitting Appears Weak

By The Associated Press

The Little Rock Travelers, who have hopes of climbing to the Class AA Southern Association's first division this year, couldn't whip a Class B team Monday night. Texarkana's Bears of the Big State league whalloped them,
4 to 0.

The Travelers, who now have been held scoreless for 20 innings on exhibition play, got only two hits, one each off Ray Machado and Joseph Biddy, while the Bears were getting to Rock Rockies Jim Lawrence and Alex Nedelco for eight. Seven of the hits and all the runs were off Lawrence.

Three Atlanta hurlers held Detroit to a pair of unearned runs Monday night and rookie Charlie Waddell smashed a single through the pitcher's box to give the Crackers two runs and a 3-2 victory, now even in a three-game series. Atlanta and Detroit will play the tie-breaker Tuesday night.
Norman Brown, Bill Kennedy and Larry Hartly of the Crax stopped threat after threat by fanning batters in the clutch.

Birmingham rallied in the late innings to overcome a two-run deficit and defeat the university of Alabama, 5 to 2.

Opponents of ERP Slash to Act Later

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — Economy advocates shifted plans today for an effort to cut the $5,500,000,000 European Recovery program at a later date—when money bills come before both houses of congress.

With the senate entering its fifth day of debate on the authorization measure, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, promised to turn a "searchlight" on forthcoming appropriations measures.

These money bills will come up in due course, the bill now before the senate could merely authorize a ceiling for the work of the Economic Cooperation administration, subject to later appropriations.

Administration leaders appeared confident they have turned back all attempts to lower the present bill's ceiling for the next 15 months operations of the Marshall plan. They were vastly cheered when they beat an amendment back last week to reduce the over-all amount by 1 per cent.

Senator Byrd (Dem.-Ga.) said in an interview he feels that the debate laid the groundwork for a 10 per cent cut in actual appropriations. He noted that Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) had invited a searing inquiry into the actual cash outlays.

However, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he doesn't think anything much will be saved. He predicted that within 1 or 2 per cent of the authorized total finally will be available by congress.

The senate had before it an amendment by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) to add a new section to the bill under which $54,000,000, remaining in a former fund voted for China could be used for relief to non-Communist areas of that land.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) said that restricting aid to non-Communist areas would be "an open invitation to mob violence on the part of hungry Chinese" in those districts.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee said he agreed with Thomas.

Knowland charged that the Truman administration "lacked of vision" in China had helped the Communists.

Hooded Band Flogs Six Negroes

Trenton, Ga., April 4. — (UP) — A band of nearly 100 hooded men flogged six Negroes Saturday night after taking them from Dade County Sheriff John Lynch, it was reported today.

Lynch said he had gone to a house on Hooker hill to investigate complaints that the Negroes were carousing in a loud manner. He said he was about to arrest the entire party when a crowd of hooded and masked men showed up and told him:

"We'll take over now, sheriff".

They took the Negroes away in cars.

About the same time, Theron V. Byrd, 25, of the Lookout Mountain Fire department near Chattanooga, said he was enticed from his home and beaten with a strap by four unmasked white men.

William West, a porter at the famous "Read" house in nearby Chattanooga, Tenn., was one of the Negroes abducted by the masked group.

He said he and his companions saw a burning cross—trademark of the Ku Klux Klan—in the yard in front of the house shortly before the abduction.

Grand Dragon Samuel Green of the Klan has repeatedly stated that the Klan has orders to indulge in no such incidents or other forms of violence.

There have been several similar incidents recently in the Tennessee-Georgia border country around Chattanooga.

West said three men approached the house and called out to them to come outside. They refused to leave the house, he said, and a few minutes later the three returned with a "big crowd of men," some wearing masks and some hoods, who yelled for the occupants to "get out."

West said he and five other Negro men slipped outside to their car and tried to drive away but their path was blocked by the automobiles of the hooded group.

He said one of the men "grabbed us and took us off into the woods and whipped us."

West said he and his five companions were then released and they drove back to Chattanooga. None of the six was seriously hurt, he said, and none was hospitalized.

Byrd said his abductors got him out of his house by telling him a friend of his was drunk and wanted Byrd to drive him home.

Byrd said they drove him five miles south of Chattanooga across the Georgia state line and beat him with a strap while ordering him not to force his wife.

Byrd said he had recently filed suit for divorce from his estranged wife but had dropped the suit and is now living with his wife again.

Blackout Ends in London After Nearly 10 Years

London, April 4 — (AP) — After nearly 10 years of blackout and gloom the lights have gone on again in Britain.

Thousands of Londoners poured into Piccadilly Circus and other gathering places Saturday night as the switches were thrown and neon signs and theatre marquees flashed in the capital.

To many Londoners, the lights marked the end of postwar austerity, despite the meat ration and other shortages that still exist in Britain.

Electricians have been working on the light ever since fuel Minister Hugh Gaitskill announced several weeks ago that the coal situation had improved enough to relax lighting restrictions.

In 1920, the United States had a population of 10 million persons.

U.S., Canada Working Out Defense Plan

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — The armed forces of Canada and the United States are exchanging officers to work on the mutual defense problems of the two nations, the national military establishment said today.

The signatures of the two nations on the North Atlantic treaty, joining them with ten other countries in a defensive alliance against aggression, actually will be a reaffirmation of a nine-year-old defensive agreement between Canada and the United States. The two countries set up a joint defense board in 1940, and

U.S. Tourist Trade Helps Europeans

(Third of A Series)
By E. C. DEANE

El Dorado, April 5 — (Special) — American tourist dollars spent in European countries in 1948, 1949 and 1950 will total enough to pay for twelve percent of the goods Europe buys from the United States during the same period.

This bit of food for thought comes from the American Automobile Association, which made a survey of "tourism" in Europe in relation to the dollar shortage there.

And so once again, the money that traveling Americans spend abroad is of real economic importance in international affairs.

Sixty percent of Americans who travel overseas do so for pleasure alone. Another fifteen percent travel to study. Fewer than ten percent go for business reasons.

About eight percent go to visit relatives. The remainder travel for reasons of health or religion.

A survey by the international union of official travel organizations brought out these facts.

Not only are American tourist dollars of immense importance in international trade between the United States and Europe. In addition, the behavior exhibited by thousands of Americans on tour is also of real importance, for a very good reason.

From the words and actions of American tourists, the average European gets the impression of what he believes the "true American" to be. Unfortunately, since some of our travelers leave their manners at home, the impression often is not a good one.

In the battle of ideologies and words, in which our nation is presently engaged throughout Europe with the Communists, the American tourist can and should represent America at its best. He can be, without too much effort, America's best ambassador of good will behind the battle lines in today's "cold war." He can make friends for America among people the diplomats and politicians never get to know. A majority of our touring citizens fill this role well, probably without even thinking about it.

During the late shooting war, our army recognized the value of good behavior by our troops while in foreign soil. I keep as a war souvenir the booklet issued to you as you expect to visit. Leave valuable who were shipped to Great Britain jewelry at home. American Ex-

ain. It told us something of English history, manners, and customs. It explained some basic differences between the English language as we Americans use it and as the British use it. We were admonished to be on our best behavior in all relationships with our hosts.

Booklets of this sort were published about many countries into which American soldiers were sent. Undoubtedly, they had good effect.

Carrying out this idea, the American Overseas Airlines last year published "ten commandments of international travel" for customers flying abroad. In brief, here they are:

1. Be intelligent. Inform yourself about the country you are visiting. Be a personal representative of your nation.
2. Be courteous. The two most important phrases in any language are "If you please" and "Thank you."
3. Be friendly.
4. Be tolerant. Customs and costumes vary. Were this not so, travel would lose its zest and charm. "When in Rome, do as the Romans."
5. Be modest. Don't boast. We have no monopoly on the good things of life.
6. Be patient. Don't be disturbed because those around you do not speak English, or use your kind of money, or drive on the right-hand side of the road.
7. Be generous. However, don't cause people to resent your presence by throwing your money around.
8. Be moderate. Don't discredit your countrymen by drinking to excess.
9. Be careful. Guard your health.
10. Be intelligent. Inform yourself about the places you intend to see. Ask questions. Bring home with you a tolerant understanding of the other fellow's social, economic, and political problems.

Europe was crowded with American tourists last year. Even greater numbers are going this year. Besides improved hotel and travel facilities, the added attraction is the fact that Uncle Sam now permits returning Americans to bring home four hundred dollars worth of foreign goods, duty free. For many years the limit was one hundred dollars worth.

Judging from personal experience in ten European countries over a period of four years since the winter of 1943, I would add the following suggestions to those listed above:

Travel light. Carry a camera you know how to use, and then use it. Take a vest-pocket dictionary along for each of the countries you expect to visit. Leave valuable who were shipped to Great Britain jewelry at home. American Ex-

Kentucky to Retire Jerseys

Lexington, Ky., April 5 — (UP) — The University of Kentucky today retired the jersey numbers worn by Ralph Beard, Alex Gonzales, Cliff Barker, Wallace Jones and Kenny Rollins as they led the Wildcats to three NCAA and four Southeastern conference basketball championships.

Rollins graduated last year, the remainder graduate this year.

press traveler's checks are readily negotiable for money all over Europe. Don't go over there expecting to find things in general as clean, as comfortable, as modern, or exactly the same as they are in the United States. Try to make some friends for yourself and for America while there.

And finally, no matter how enjoyable the trip to Europe, you'll be glad to get back home, for there truly is no place quite like the U. S. A.
